Endure™ Foam

Endure™ Foam is a hybrid foam that has been specially formulated to provide the best of both worlds - combining the benefits of a high-resilience and conventional foam. It is a high density foam with a more open cell structure than standard foam for increased airflow, delivering perfect temperature levels and comfort all year round. Endure™ Foam offers great support and bounce back due to its responsiveness and provides a more even feel across the mattress. It is ideal for bedding applications and can be used as either a base or a transitional layer, delivering both excellent durability and a low compression set to provide all-night-long comfort. Endure™ Foam is available in a density of 37kg/m³ with three different hardnesses ranging from soft to firm.

Combines the benefits of HR and conventional foam, all in one foam.

Excellent support and durability

Open cell structure, which offers increased air-flow, when compared to conventional foam.

Low compression set to provide all night long comfort
